Scholastic Census Shows 757 Increase Over 1923

PASSING THE $,000 MARK in 1924, Port Arthur's scholastic population increased 757 over the 1923 count.

In 1923 the scholastics in the city, boys and girls between the ages of seven and 17 years, numbered 7,513, and for 1924 the census recently completed gives the city 8,270 scholastics.

These are the figures given out today by L. B. Abbey, secretary of the Port Arthur school board, with the official report of the 1924 school census taken by F. E. Everett, director and five assistants.

For each scholastic enumerated in the census an appropriation is made by the state, this amount for 1923 being $13, but it is not definitely known how much money per scholastic will be paid by the state in 1924, the board secretary said today. The appropriations vary from $10 to $14, and will be determined for 1924 sometime in June.

One of the facts brought out by the 1924 scholastic census is that Port Arthur has 59 more white boys than girls, the count showing 3,276 male scholastics and 3,217 females; but in the negro scholastics, the girls outnumber the boys 971 to 806. The total white scholastic population of the city is listed at 6,593, and the negro at 1,677.

Scholastics among the white children enumerated aged 10, 11, 16 and 17 show that the girls of these ages outnumber the boys in Port Arthur, while boys and girls for the four ages where the girls take the lead in the count is for 10 years, girls 345, boys 317; for 11 years, girls 314, boys 270; for 16, girls 256, boys 228; and for 17, girls 257, boys 224.

The scholastic census required the entire month of March with five workers engaged for the task, and the reports of the census takers have just been compiled and tabulated. Those engaged in the census taking and the counts made by each were: F. E. Everett, 2,791; (director) H. Vines, 2,500; Pearl Chardin, 200; Addie Everett, 200; R. L. Ramsey, 200; and W. E. Sampson, 1,777, a total of 8,270.

City Council to Sue Injunction Signers

MAYOR ORDERS ACTION STARTED

Says Litigation Holding Up Sale of Bonds

Port Arthur will institute suits against all persons who signed the injunction to restrain the city from selling the $1,000,000 bonds voted recently. The suits will probably be for damages.

This was evidenced this morning during commission meeting when Mayor J. P. Logan made a motion that R. A. Shivers be employed to assist City Attorney Vernon J. Wistner in fighting the injunction, and announced that suits against those seeking the injunction would be instituted.

"We want you to go to Beaumont and see what the city is doing," Mayor Logan said to Shivers. "You are to see that the city is not held up by these injunction signers."

CANDIDATES DAY

All to Get Chance to Speak At Ft. Neches Picnic

BEAUMONT, Texas, April 25.—All candidates for office will have a chance to make a speech on June 5 when an old fashioned all day picnic will be held at Ft. Neches, according to J. H. Ruchford, in charge of the week's program.

He said today that he would issue an invitation to every aspirant for a county office to be present that day.

Council Orders Busses From Beaumont Ousted

When it was brought to the city commission's attention this morning that city busses are operating between Port Arthur and Beaumont, the commission instructed Police Chief Walter W. Covington to take steps at once to stop the practice.

Ordinances prohibiting the operation of busses between the city and Beaumont, or from Beaumont into the corporate limits of Port Arthur were passed some time ago.

Chief Covington said this morning that he will endeavor to stop the practice immediately, and that all persons found driving busses out of the city into Beaumont, or from the latter place into the limits of this city will be arraigned in corporate court.

HOTEL COMMITTEE TO MEET NEXT WEEK

The hotel committee appointed by Chamber of Commerce directors recently failed to meet this week, and will probably be called together to discuss methods of raising funds for the construction of a hotel here early next week.

Absence of a number of members of the committee, out of the city this week, put an end to plans for a committee conference. It was said at Chamber of Commerce headquarters.

WISTNER URGES CITY CODIFY ORDINANCES

Asserting that the city ordinances ought to be codified, and declaring that at present there are a number of ordinances on the statutes of the city's records that are obsolete, City Attorney Vernon J. Wistner told commissioners during their regular session today that when the budget is considered, funds to care for this work should be incorporated in the bill.

The ordinances have not been codified since 1915, Wistner said.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Asserting that after continued investigation it had been revealed that conditions at this time will not permit the organization of a Lions club for Port Neches and Nederland, a committee headed by Buck Murray was dissolved during the regular weekly luncheon of the Port Arthur Lions club today noon, and their report accepted.

$350,000 Tax And Income for Budget For Year Is Likely

Approximately $350,000 income from all resources will be available for the city's general expense during the incoming budget year, Mayor J. P. Logan told heads of the various city departments this morning during commission meeting when he outlined the budget plans for the coming period. The amount is the same as estimated income for the past budget year.

Estimated taxation revenue, the mayor said, will aggregate approximately $250,000, while $70,000 will be available from all departments, making the total of $320,000.

Economy Stressed
"Now is the time for the department heads to begin working out their respective appropriations for the city's budget," Mayor Logan said during his remarks. "Taxable values here haven't increased in comparison with the rapid growth of the city; conditions in Port Arthur should be $25,000,000 or $40,000,000, whereas they are in reality only about $25,000,000. But we really do take care of each department just as well as possible, and at the same time, the commission wishes to request each of you to be as economical as you possibly can."

Dr. Pat Reed said the appropriation for the department will be about the same as last year, and it was brought out by the commission that Dr. Reed's department had spent just exactly 35 cents less than estimated in the budget.

Appropriations for the city commission and mayor will remain the same.

Better Garbage on Same Money

Mayor Logan told G. W. Hode, superintendent of the garbage department, that he wished the superintendent to work out some plan whereby greater service can be given on the same budget expended during the past season.

Discussing the police department appropriation Mayor Logan said that last year the police did not spend all money allotted to that department, and that over $1,000 remained unspent. It was brought out that the department is now working an average of 13.5 men in comparison with the 12,000 population of Port Arthur, and Chief Wistner W. Covington, who was present at the meeting, said that he really needed 25 or 30 men to cover the city. Mayor Logan suggested the appropriation request from Chief Covington contain at first the needed increases, and that probably some equipment could be cut down to take care of the appropriation that the department is being conducted at the present time.

Speaking of the street and bridge appropriations for the incoming period, J. O. Herpin, city engineer, said that his department would request everything possible for street improvement here. It was pointed out that this place of the budget had some over $14,000 last year, through unavoidable work necessary, and the mayor suggested that for the incoming budget necessary street improvements should be given due consideration, in view of the fact that it is the aim of the present administration to raise the levee to nine feet.

Urges Early Estimates
The abattoir department missed appropriation estimate $20 last year, spending $68 less than was anticipated. The superintendent of this department was praised for the splendid manner in which the work at the abattoir is being conducted.

Other phases of the budget touched (Turn to Page 2, Column 4.)

BUCK MURRAY SPEAKS ON IMMIGRANT BILL

Buck Murray explained to members of the Lions club today noon, during the program following their regular weekly luncheon at Plaza hotel, the entire substance of the immigration bill. His message was well received by the club.

Authorities of the Methodist institution are expected to dismiss without further inquiry those declared guilty by the student court. In addition, it was said, they were preparing to punish others, who played lesser parts in "The Dinks," and the

Passing of Demo Leader May Change Political Complexion

By United Press. NEW YORK, April 25.—Charles F. Murphy, "boss" of Tammany Hall, died at 9:05 a. m. today.

Murphy's death occurred at 303 east 17th street, Manhattan. Coming as it does only two months before the national democratic convention, the passing of the famous politician is expected to have an important effect upon the choice of the democratic nominee next June.

Gov. Al Smith Prostrated At Chief's Passing

By United Press. ALBANY, N. Y., April 25.—Almost prostrated with grief, Governor Alfred E. Smith today could barely discuss the death of Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader and close friend of the governor.

Murphy's death is "significant in the political future of Smith. His eyes filled with tears, his voice choked with grief, and his face twitching, all the governor could say was:

"It is awful. It is awful. No man had a better friend and no man could have such a friend as he was to me."

The governor received word of the Tammany chieftain's death about 10 a. m. from Major General Charles Berry in New York.

The governor refused to believe the report and immediately put up telephone calls for Tammany Hall and police headquarters in New York. He received verification about 11 o'clock.

Then he completely broke down. He was preparing at that time to leave the executive mansion for his office in the capital but couldn't control himself.

He received a few newspaper men in his office at the mansion but he could not talk to them.

First Christian Church Here Broadcasts Anthems to World by Choir of 50 Voices

$486 FREE WILL OFFERING TAKEN

Fund Will Be Expended To Construct Balcony

In a radio concert to which a crowded church of auditors listened attentively, a choir of fifty voices, under the direction of C. N. Hiler, broadcasted from the First Christian church last night while the sound waves of Christian anthems were sent thousands of miles. Radio equipment installed by Frank Stoner, owner of the Electric Supply company, caught the most minute notes of the music.

A free will offering was taken during the concert to go toward the fund for the construction of a balcony, which will be built in the church at once, Rev. H. R. Yoderman, announcing at the close of the service, that $486 had been raised through this means.

Floral Decorations
The beautiful decorations of the church for the evening featured members of the choir. Large bouquets and spring blossoms, clustered in tall baskets and crystal vases, formed floral beauty for the chancel and choir loft, while the glow of many handsome floor lamps cast soft shadows over the entire scene. A Howard grand piano, loaned by the K. C. Rogers piano company, furnished accompaniment for all the numbers.

The opening number on the program was two stanzas of "America," after which Bryan D. Beck of Beaumont, sang a tender solo, "Love's Old Sweet Song," with piano accompaniment by Miss Margaret Gordon, music instructor of South Park College of Beaumont.

Miss Theresa McClave's clear soprano voice was heard in a beautiful solo, "The Last Rose of Summer." Miss McClave is a talented musician from Beaumont. C. N. Hiler played her accompaniment.

Another delightful tenor solo was given by James Baird of Beaumont, who sang "In the Garden of Your Heart."

Misses Mary Higginbotham and Thelma Campbell, attractive Port Arthur artists, sang a vocal duet, "Whispering Hope," with Miss Higginbotham playing the Hawaiian harp as accompaniment.

A bass solo was sung by George Kellar of Beaumont who sang "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep." A male quartet, composed of Ernest Laminack, James Baird, Hollis Jenkins and Asa Spencer of Beaumont, entertained with a delightful selection.

Mrs. Robert Diebolt, a soprano soloist possessing a voice remarkable for its clearness and purity, sang "Break O'Day," following which Misses Woe Wee Griffin and Gladys Garrett appeared in a duet number, singing "Hark, My Soul," with piano accompaniment by Mrs. H. Claudio Holmes. Miss Griffin's soprano voice blended perfectly with Miss Garrett's charming contralto voice.

"The King of Love My Shepherd Is" was a quartet number rendered by Mrs. W. C. Sperling, Miss Deanevick McCullough, H. Jenkins and W. D. Snider of Beaumont. Miss Rachael Kent of Beaumont played the accompaniment.

Another charming number was contributed to the program by Miss McClave, who sang "The Lord Is My Light." The program was concluded with the anthem, "Send Out The Light" by the choir and visiting artists with the solo parts being sung by George Kellar of Beaumont, bass.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Elmer R. Sheridan, tugboat captain, dropped his watch overboard in 1904 and recovered it today in a pawnshop. A freight dug up the watch and the finder pawned it.

LOVE MAY BE BLIND

But before you can impress someone of the opposite sex enough to get him to share the happy state of mind with you, you certainly must keep your appearance pleasing and attractive. Pimples, blotches, acne, skin sores, etc., are worse to strangers and new acquaintances, and even husbands, wives, parents and kin feel sorry for loved ones who suffer from such skin diseases.

The way to get rid of all these face blemishes is to make a selection from the clear skin effect and lotion from dear ones as well as new acquaintances, is to use the wonderful Black and White Ointment. It is economically priced, in liberal packages. The 50c size contains three times as much as the 25c size. All dealers have it.—A.E.

Odds and Ends and Comments on Our Morning Mail

Every normal person hears the call at nature at this time of year. Some answer by taking strolls in the woods, others by long auto rides in the open country, to the beach, village creek or tributary haunt.

But the greatest pleasure in springtime is planting home gardens, flowers and grass.

Nature plainly intended every man and woman to till the soil and grow a part of their food supply.

Working with our hands in the soil is the natural life.

There's a thrill unlike any other joy, in watching the gradual growth of plant life from the seed in the soil prepared by your own hands.

First the delicate green sprout, on through the various stages of the harvest of vegetables, flowers or fruit.

The home garden is life on a small scale—a never-ending struggle for survival. The constant battle with weeds and insects is as fascinating a game as the struggle for success and against failure in the battle to "make a good living."

Home gardening is a sport. No baseball fan gets more genuine pleasure from a game than the do-it-yourself home gardener watching his vegetable patch or flowers sprout and mature.

That's where health is—close to the soil. A patch of land only six feet square is the best medicine in the world for pale cheeks, lagging nerves, flabby muscles and sickly appetite.

The garden brings health by fresh air, exposure to sunshine, moderate exercise, the relaxation of a hobby, and by a mysterious alchemy caused by contact with the soil.

If you have children, help them start a garden. It is, in addition to its health benefits, excellent training to make them think straight.

The man who tills the soil absorbs knowledge of the laws of nature—and these laws regulate all human activities.

Nothing is more powerful than a garden to impress children with the fact that nature makes man pay the full price for every joy, every folly, every neglect, and that while effort occasionally is fruitless it brings returns by the law of averages. It is the life—all seeds do not sprout in the garden, nor all efforts in the battle for success.

The country is far away from the average Port Arthur child. Bring the country to him by having a home garden this year.

Gas is the least humane and the most effective method of warfare, says Chief Fries of the Army Chemical Warfare Service.

That isn't saying much for gas.

In modern warfare there is little desire to be humane. Time was when war was a sport, with a high code of honor, when armored knights met with lance and shield.

The future of warfare was indicated in this World War. The next big conflict, if any, will not be directed primarily at armies. It will be aimed at entire nations back of the line—starvation blockades, destruction of crops from the air, and systematic attempts to kill whole populations by disease germs. Teach your children to hate and loathe war.

Those same germs, using poison gases to fight in cases of the future, are now being used in the proving grounds of the future.

Gas was tried on 257 cases of bronchitis, flu, whooping cough, pneumonia, etc. The army claims that 71 per cent of the cases were cured, and an additional 22 per cent benefited.

And most of the cures were effected within an hour.

These results have weight, being an outcome of medical officers in experiments conducted scientifically. It is not impossible that poison gas eventually will cause more lives than were lost in the entire world war. A by-product of destruction.

Quarrelsome epidemic is taken great war. After the thirty years war Germany was swept by a widespread fear of ghosts. Most other wars had an aftermath of suicides.

"Dancing fever" is the epidemic that has followed the world war. This indicates that people have better self-control and more recuperative powers than in the past, claims Dr. Bruno Altman of Berlin.

Industry is so highly developed in our age that nations quickly rebuild after big wars instead of being prostrated for several generations, as in the past.

Chemists have finally "isolated" three or four known vitamins—the mysterious substances found in certain foods and necessary for growth and health.

Having isolated vitamins, the scientists learn their constituent elements, carbon, hydrogen and oxygen. But ask them to tell you what nitrogen is, or the other three substances. No answer. When we flatter ourselves that we have increased our knowledge, we merely have enlarged our consciousness of the extent of what we don't know. The more we learn, the less we know.

COOLIDGE WINS FULL CONTROL OF G. O. P. NOMINATION FOR PRESIDENT

Calvin Coolidge has the nomination in his hand. He has more than a majority of the delegates in his national convention. He has the machinery of the party at his beck and call. He will dictate the platform of his party. He will name the men who are to conduct his campaign.

He was only a vice president a year ago. Now he is the throne, the power behind the throne, the hope of a historic organization. Really the man who is named for vice president by the democratic convention or the republican convention this year may be the next president of the United States.

If Senator LaFollette bolts and heads a third party the election may be thrown into the house. In a vote by states, owing to five ties. The house may be unable to elect. Then it will be up to the senate. Should the house deadlock and fail to elect prior to March 4, 1925, the senate would choose a vice president, selecting one of the two candidates who receives the highest electoral votes.

The vice president so elected would automatically become president. In the choice of a vice president each senator has a vote and as there can be but two candidates there is no opportunity for a deadlock.

Senator Hiram Johnson of California would not sneeringly put aside a vice-presidential nomination of his party this year.

MAN WITH A FRUGAL MIND

Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee has introduced a bill which limits campaign funds to one million dollars and bars corporation gifts. Presidential candidates would not be permitted to contribute more than ten thousand dollars, or senatorial candidates more than five thousand dollars, no person shall contribute to the campaign of more than one political party or the campaign of more than one candidate for representative or senator in congress.

It shall be unlawful for any person to contribute to the election of any candidate for representative or senator outside of the state in which such person is a citizen. It shall be unlawful for any state or district political committee or organization to spend any sums of money in behalf of presidential or vice-presidential elections.

This measure carries severe penalties, heavy fines or prison terms and disqualification from holding a government position of trust or profits for four years. Senator McKellar of Tennessee would be pleased to see the publishers of American newspapers doing all the political work including publicity free of charge.

Four years ago the national committees of the two great parties spent in the aggregate some eleven million dollars for campaign purposes. A New Mexican from Three Rivers appears to have reaped the harvest.

ANOTHER FORD CRITIC

Congressman Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, for years chairman of the committee on rivers and harbors, is opposed to the Ford Muscle Shoals proposal. In his opinion it is completely masked behind a smoke screen of doing something for the farmer. He regards the Ford offer as grossly inadequate. Ford is paying 1 million dollars he says, for property that cost ninety-two million dollars and that has a scrap value of sixteen million dollars.

Well, the money was spent to make the money safe for democracy, wasn't it? If so why not charge it off the books as a bad debt?

Henry Ford promises to make and sell cheap fertilizer to the farmers of America. Gigantic fertilizer trusts are opposed to the Ford proposal. Congressman Burton is opposed to government opposition of the plant; he is opposed to the Ford proposal. Would he scrap the plant or give it to the fertilizer trust? If he has a better plan, why don't he place it before the congress?

ADVICE TO LAW LOVERS

"I hope all law loving and law enforcing men and women of the state will attend the coming precinct, county and state conventions," is the advice of R. Harper Kirby to his fellow democrats. Is this the R. Harper Kirby who conducted the winning campaign that placed prohibition in the constitution of Texas?

And this is the R. Harper who believes an uninstructed delegation as to men and instructed as to principles and policies should be sent to the Madison Square Garden convention. There are men who are outspoken this year who are neither office seekers or reactionaries. It is an excellent sign of the times.

Many experts on investments advise "buying into an industry" instead of just buying the securities of one company in that field.

If you believed that the automobile business was going to prosper in the next few years, what would be the safest way to invest in it?

The answer would be to choose securities in some of the best automobile companies. However, there is a more conservative way, called investing in the industry.

For instance, there are railroads which depend upon automobile shipments for the major part of their traffic. Certain equipment companies rely mainly on the automobile business. Other companies deal in materials which ultimately find their way into the automobile.

Of course the automobile is the principal part of the industry, yet by distributing money over the rest of the industry you are not dependent upon the automobile business alone, because these companies have other business too. At the same time if the automobile business does prosper they probably will too.

HIS BROTHER'S WIFE

by RUDY AYRES 6 NEA SERVICE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Dolly, a governess, marries Nigel Bretherton for his money. The marriage proves an unhappy one. When war is declared, Nigel is glad to see his brother David in the army. His best friend, Mary Furnival, Mary comes to live in Dolly's flat. Dolly tells Mary that she is sorry she did not marry a poor sailor named Robert Durban.

When war comes that Nigel marries Robert in London and sails with him for America.

Nigel's older brother, David, calls to see Nigel's widow. His mistake is to tell Dolly's marriage, so lets David think that she is his wife. David goes home, Nigel's home to call on an old friend.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
David stepped out on the path. He looked up at the dark face of the house, and a little reminiscent smile curved his lips.

"This is the house," he said.

He said and dismissed the man, and went up the steps to the front door.

By the light above the porch he glanced at his watch. It was nearly nine. He hesitated for a moment, then rang the bell.

After all, there were excuses for a late visit when a man had just returned to London after three years' absence. Fisher would not mind.

The maid who opened the door was doubtful if her master would see him. She took Bretherton's card reluctantly. After a moment a door of one of the sitting-rooms was flung open, and a man came eagerly into the hall.

"David, my dear old fellow!" He seized Bretherton by both hands and dragged him into the light. "I had no idea you were in England. When did you land? Why didn't you let me know?"

"I landed this morning. I have been nowhere, except—"

He broke off. A woman had followed Henry Fisher into the hall. She was golden-haired and beautifully dressed. Her eyes were bright with eagerness as they met David's.

"Oh, I am so glad to see you again! I couldn't believe it was you! But, oh, David, poor Nigel!"

They were in the drawing-room now, and Fisher had taken David's overcoat.

"I just couldn't believe it when we heard," Dora Fisher went on, in a choked voice.

"I see," there was a little pause, but it seems impossible that anyone we know could be amongst them. Oh, David, it must have been a shock."

"Yes."

Something in her almost exaggerated joy jarred on him. He looked relieved when her brother came back to the room.

"I ought to apologize for such a little visit," David was saying, "but there were several matters I wanted to speak to you about."

He hesitated.

Dora sprang up from the deep chair where she was sitting. There was a little frown between her eyes.

"You mean that you want me to go away? You are horrid, when I haven't seen you for three years! I'll just give you half an hour—no more. And, David, you are going to stay the night, aren't you? It's too late to get home to bed, Grace, and I simply won't let you go to a hotel!"

"If I am not in the way—" he began diffidently.

She laughed.

"We are only too glad to have you."

She left them, shutting the door after her.

Fisher was mixing whisky-and-soda at a side table.

"It's good to see you, David," he said affectionately. "I only wish it might have been in happier circumstances. Poor Nigel!"

"I wanted to speak to you about him. Why didn't you tell me he was married?"

Fisher flushed a little.

"My dear chap, how could I? Nigel was so anxious to keep it back; seemed to think you'd be annoyed and cut down his allowance."

"Why should I have been annoyed?"

Fisher shrugged his shoulders.

"Well, his wife was hardly—you know what I mean."

David thought of the woman he had left alone in that empty flat, with the tears still wet on her face.

"Hardly what?" he asked, with curious interest.

Fisher looked uncomfortable.

"Well, if you must know, she wasn't the sort of woman Nigel ought to have married. She was a nursery governess, I believe, and she married him for what he could give her; there's no doubt about that. I only saw her once."

He pushed a whisky-and-soda across to his friend.

"What was she like?" David asked.

He took up the glass, holding it quizzically to the light. His manner was very quiet—almost disinterested.

Fisher shrugged his shoulders.

"Little suburban-haired thing—one of the dolly sort."

"Suburban-haired?"

"Yes, reddish hair; quite young—about twenty-one, I should say. I had lunch with them soon after they were married. She didn't like me. Oh, no, she didn't say so; but she let me see from the manner."

There was a little silence.

"Of course," David said then, "I must do something for her. Nigel had nothing except what I allowed him. I wanted to ask your advice."

Fisher raised his brows.

"She won't be a widow long, from what I saw of her," he said, rather dryly. "You needn't be sorry for her, David."

He turned to a paper-strewn desk in a corner by the fire.

"I've a photograph of her here somewhere. Nigel sent it to me when they were honeymooning. Care to see it?"

Miss Emma Miller And Mr. Conrad R. Proft Wed At Beautiful Ceremony

The Trinity Lutheran church, that handsome new structure recently completed, served as the setting of a beautiful wedding last evening at 7:30 o'clock when Miss Emma Miller, only daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, became the bride of Mr. Conrad R. Proft, with Rev. F.W. Seibelitz reading the impressive double-ring service.

The wedding was of wide interest to friends in Port Arthur and was the first to take place in the new church. The handsome edifice was elaborately decorated for the occasion. The altar was banked with ferns and palms and festooned with green foliage, amidst which stood many gorgeous roses, lilies and ferns and smaller baskets of similar lovely blossoms with a background of the green foliage cutting with clusters of the pretty blossoms. The vows were spoken beneath a lovely arch formed of green foliage and garland with the beautiful white blossoms.

The pews for special guests were marked with clusters of white blossoms tied with flowing bows of white tulle ribbon.

Prior to the ceremony a beautiful nuptial program was delightfully given by William Kamprath at the organ, who accompanied Mrs. J. L. Singletary in her solo, "O Promise Me," and giving the wedding marches from Lohengrin and Valenti as professional and recessional.

The bridal party entered from opposite sides, led by the usher, Martin Rebeck and G. C. Burkman, and followed by the two bridesmaids, Misses Eli Proft, sister of the groom and Thelma Siebelitz. Miss Proft was charmingly gowned in a daintily ruffled frock of delicate blue tulle, and Miss Siebelitz was attired in a lovely costume of peach tulle. The maid carried beautiful bouquets of sweet peas in shades harmonizing with their costumes.

The groomsmen were Herman Miller, brother of the bride, and Lothar Jungmichel.

Mrs. Mary Miller, the matron of honor, wore a handsome gown of soft gray crepe bordered with crystal, and carried an arm bouquet of sweet peas.

Immediately preceding the bride were her little niece, Mary Louise Miller, who served as the dainty flower girl in her white ruffled organza frock, and her little nephew, Elmer Miller, the ring bearer, in a white linen suit, who carried the ring on a lovely white satin pillow.

The bride, who entered with her brother, Alford Miller, by whom she was given in marriage, was charming in an exquisite gown of white satin, fashioned in straight lines, heavily beaded with crystal. Her fifty feet of ruffled illusion was caught with a band of orange blossoms and fell in graceful folds over her long train, which was bound on either side with pearls. Her shower bouquet was fashioned of lilies of the valley. She was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Amos Smith, the impressive ceremony being read by Rev. Siebelitz.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, which was filled with masses of lovely roses and spring flowers of every variety.

Mr. and Mrs. Proft left during the evening for a wedding tour of San Antonio, Galveston, Houston and other points, following which they will be at home at 2017 Thirtieth street, where Mr. Proft has a pretty furnished cottage for his bride. The bride is traveling in a new motor car with accessories in harmony.

Mrs. Proft is widely known in Port Arthur and was reared and educated here. Until recently she was employed as bookkeeper at Crowell-Gifford company. Mr. Proft has been residing in Port Arthur several years, and he is affiliated with the Brick and Iron Co. of this city.

In the games Mrs. J. M. Plyler was awarded the prize for high score and Mrs. George Edwards received the second favor. A lovely tea course, reflecting the chosen theme, was served after the games, with the yellow mints being offered in crystal baskets topped with bows of white tulle.

SYMPHONY CLUB WINS PLAUDITS

Bygone Days Charming Recalled in Club Program

Pages of history were turned back last night fifty and seventy-five years to the days of hoop-skirts and bustles, when a wealth of beauty, both in color and fabric, were seen at the old-fashioned concert given by the members of the Symphony Club at the Department Club house.

Lovely roses and spring blossoms in tall vases and floor baskets were clustered at vantage points on the rostrum, and gave a setting of unusual beauty for the pretty costumes.

The concert was given in the form of a sketch in two acts, showing the contrast between the songs of today and the songs of yesterday. The first act took place in the drawing room of a composer's home, Mrs. Clifford G. Hall taking the part of the composer. The party, comprised of Mrs. Hall, Mrs. R. L. Drake, Mrs. Fred P. Dodge, Mrs. Thomas Suppington, and Miss Marie Pearson, had just returned from an opera, written by Mrs. Hall, the composer, who was dissatisfied with the songs of today.

MRS. E. A. ROSSI ENTERTAINS

Mrs. E. A. Rossi charmingly entertained two tables of bridge players Wednesday afternoon at her home, 817 Eleventh street.

White and yellow roses gave attractive floral charm to the home adornment. The white and yellow theme was artistically featured in the table appointments and in the dainty yellow mint baskets, topped with fluffs of white tulle. For success in the games Mrs. E. B. Paggi received the prize, and the low score favor fell to Mrs. J. Melanson. A tempting ice course featuring the hostess theme was offered after the games.

Players for the afternoon were Mrs. H. E. Paggi, Mrs. J. C. Brennan, Mrs. C. E. Fitz-Gerald, Mrs. Gilbert Root, Mrs. Allen Hulse, Mrs. J. Melanson, Mrs. M. P. Folse and Mrs. E. A. Rossi.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER

I like to think, little Marquise, that you miss me when I do not often write something and put it in our little secret drawer that you may read if you wish.

I miss you greatly, little confidante. At least I feel I have not quite solved the great questions that confront me every day until I have mulled them over in my mind and written them down pro and con as though you were going to advise me. Then things straighten out in my mind. After looking facts in the face, I get rid of much superfluous emotion, much self-pity, and come to much more logical and optimistic conclusions. Sometimes indeed I am superstitious enough to feel that perhaps in some occult way you have advised and helped me.

I know it is ridiculous, much of this stuff we read in the magazines and newspapers, where they tell married people how to keep stoking the furnace of conjugal bliss with kind words and served-on buttons and breakfast-table smiles and boujee caps to cover curl papers, and never keeping husbands waiting and really truly honest-to-God dissertation on marriage by Louise Closser Hale, who was big enough, brave enough and fine enough to write this paragraph:

"Not for an instant have I believed that marriage is a holy alliance. What is so holy, so inspiring about it all as the way we poor creatures take on this awkward link."

But he always forgets this. He always wants me to meet him at the station, for what reason I do not know, for he is always nervous and irritable and he always wants to get to his business. He always makes me feel as though I were a very small and unimportant part of his life, on this the first moment he sees me after he has been gone from me a long time.

If he would just come in and go immediately to his work, perhaps calling me up to say "Hello!" and then come home at night to a good dinner and a smiling wife and rest, it would simplify matters so much; but I guess that is not to be.

So I must always meet him in a public place; not because he is so anxious to see me, for after giving my cheek a little peck he always becomes nervously excited and hurried and wants to get rid of me. Naturally he wants to go to his office.

All day, after I received that telegram from him, I kept saying to myself "I will not go to the station," but as usual I ended by going down the next morning early.

HOUSEWARMING AT PRESBYTERIAN ANNEX

Members of Circle Two of the Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian church will entertain with a housewarming tonight at the Annex at 8 o'clock. Members of the church and their friends are cordially invited to attend the housewarming, a delightful evening of games and musical numbers being arranged for the entertainment of the guests. Delicious refreshments will be served by the hostesses.

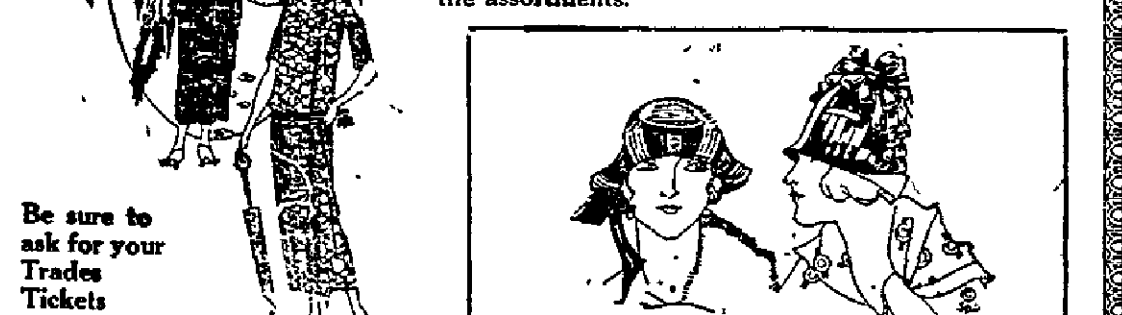

A free-will offering will be taken up during the evening, the proceeds of which will go toward the church building fund.

As the Summer Season Draws Nearer

You are doubtlessly thinking of Palm Beach, Mohair and Seersucker Suits.

How fine it is that clothing concerns are making men's suits of fabrics so comfortable for this climate. And, finer still, men can congratulate themselves on being able to buy these comfortable suits in pre-shrunk materials.

Local merchants and your DRY CLEANER are happy, too, that you can now avoid all shrinkage troubles when your clothes need to be cleaned.

Demand Pre-Shrunk Clothes

Our cleaning methods will not shrink anything that water alone will not shrink. If you buy suits of pre-shrunk fabrics you can be confident that they will make many trips to the laundry and stay fit the whole summer.

So, buy from reliable merchants who are far-sighted enough to deal with manufacturers who use reliable pre-shrunk materials in their suits.

F. of L. Demands Repeal Of Texas Open Port Law

Resolution Appeals to the School Teachers to Organize Union, Another Backs Proposed Child Labor Amendment

The convention of the State Federation of Labor went on record Thursday afternoon as being unalterably opposed to the open port law and demands the repeal of this law. It was resolved to instruct its legislative representative to use his best efforts to secure its repeal. This resolution was proposed by A. E. Anderson and was presented to the delegates by H. E. Roberts, chairman of the committee on legislation.

Resolution No. 44, providing for a proposed change in the present compensation law, was adopted. The resolution proposes that the law be so changed that the longshoremen working aboard a vessel moored in navigable waters of the United States come under the protection of the state compensation law, instead of as present being covered by the admiralty and maritime law.

Resolution No. 35 appeals to the school teachers to organize into bona fide trade union under the jurisdiction of the American Federation of Teachers to be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The resolution was passed by the delegates.

Other resolutions passed by the convention are as follows:

Resolution No. 13, proposed by George W. Fisher, provides for text books to be printed in Texas, thus making the free distribution of text books safe from opposition.

Resolution No. 33, presented by E. C. Brock, urges that a band law similar to the Iowa band law be adopted.

Resolution No. 1, presented by L. Santi, proposes that the State Federation of Labor go on record as instructing the legislative board to devise ways and means to prevent loss of life and severe injuries by having skills at refineries examined at least once a year by a competent inspector.

Resolution No. 2, presented by R. Gers, provides for the instruction of legislative representatives to draft bill and introduce it at the next regular session of the state legislature to provide for the elimination of night work by laborers in bakeries.

Resolution No. 20 by E. H. Had-sall pertains to an engine license law and state examining board.

Resolution No. 13, presented by Joe Salberg, urges legislation pertaining to boiler inspection.

Resolution No. 41, presented by Robert McKinley, urges that senators and representatives from Texas be appealed to support the Brook-Hill bill.

Seeks Union Labor Chair

Resolution No. 6 by C. F. Russi endorses legislation along the lines of the Lohmeyer-Stanfield bill.

Resolution No. 8, presented by C. F. Russi, pertains to classification of the United States civil service employees.

Resolution No. 26, by L. R. Branch and others, pertains to compensation of federal employees.

Resolution No. 7, by C. F. Russi, pertains to a general assignment of army officers within the federal service.

Resolution No. 23, presented by the Houston delegation, pertains to the establishment of a labor chair in a Texas university.

Resolutions passing through the hands of the Labor and Shop Card committee were presented to the convention by Caleb C. Smith, chairman of that committee.

Resolution No. 3, proposed by R. Gers, urges that the buying of union bakers products Resolution No. 14, presented by A. W. Barren, commends a tobacco company.

The committee on officers' reports made a report to the convention that they are carefully considering the reports of the officers. Committee report was accepted.

The committee report concurs in legislative recommendations with the president's report for the repeal of the open port law and the constitutional matter of printing textbooks in Texas and state insurance plan.

Agrees with the president's report in warning the different organizations of the establishment in Texas of company unions under different titles for the purpose of luring members of the federation. Committee recommends that each delegate warn the members of some organization of this scheme.

The president and vice-president and the delegate to the A. F. of L. convention were commended.

Committee also acts that the convention take notice of the deficit in the treasury and bear it in mind when taking any action incurring expense.

John Malone of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of America spoke to the convention pointing out a program for the organization of the laborers in the larger cities and later in the smaller towns which he says will be successful in fighting the capitalists. Since 1890 when he joined the organization it has won many victories and met with many defeats.

"There is not an organization in the world," he said, "which will do as much for you as the labor union."

Joseph S. Myers, state commissioner of labor, spoke to the convention pointing out legislative changes which should be made particularly in regard to the laws affecting the labor of women and children.

"You can't get behind the labor union too strong," he said.

A resolution adopted by the Farm

Labor Union stating that all newspapers, magazines, catalogs (particularly seed and implement catalogs) and price lists, also advertising matter—and all kinds of printed matter not bearing the union label will not be considered as favorable to the Farm Labor Union of Dallas county and of Texas. This resolution was applauded and approved by the convention.

It was moved from the floor that a telegram be sent to the representatives from Texas in the house of representatives urging them to act in behalf of the federal regulation of child labor which was taken up in the house yesterday in the form of a constitutional amendment. The convention unanimously favored the motion.

saying that the old-fashioned songs were the most beautiful and had always been the best and most popular. Several modern songs, such as Grieg's "Valse," "I Love a Little Cottage," and others, were sung following which the old-fashioned numbers were given.

In this manner the old-fashioned songs were introduced in the second act, with members of the chorus and soloists appearing in beautiful old-fashioned costumes.

Joe Park gave a group of songs between acts, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Park.

Among the old-fashioned songs rendered during the evening were "Love's Old Sweet Song," "Sweet Genevieve," "Believe Me All Those Endearing Young Charms," "The Old Oaken Bucket," "The Last Rose of Summer," "Loch Lomond" and "Count Thru the Rye." Members of the Symphony club formed a chorus who gave the old-fashioned songs, with solo numbers by Mrs. J. E. Grammer, Mrs. R. L. Drake, Miss Audrey Lucille Smith, Mrs. E. G. Ruffner, Mrs. Fred P. Dodge, and musical readings by Miss Marie LeMaster and Mrs. Edith Lyons Jones. Other members of the chorus were Mrs. O. E. Alia, Mrs. Clifford G. Hall, Mrs. O. W. Keith, Mrs. T. J. Twomey, Miss Julia Sanders, Miss Ethel King, Mrs. M. J. Panton and Miss Marie Pierson.

Piano accompaniments were given by Mrs. Thomas Sappington, whose costume was of unusual interest, the blouse of black velvet with leg-of-mutton sleeves and her headpiece being a part of Mrs. Horton L. Drake's wedding costume.

Mrs. Neal D. Rader, who made a dainty picture in her attractive frock of flowered lawn, played the violin obligato.

Mrs. Able's costume was of yellow, and was especially dainty. Mrs. Drake wore a lovely gown of blue, and Mrs. Grammer's frock of flowered lawn was very becoming to her type of beauty.

Mrs. Hall wore a beautiful costume of rose taffeta with hoop skirts, and Mrs. Keith and Miss Sanders wore costumes of flowered material with basque effects and fichus. Mrs. Dodge was given in a pink gown with white fichu, and Mrs. Twomey's frock was of lavender with basque effect. Miss LeMaster wore an attractive frock of blue with a scarf of the same shade, and Miss King's gown was of flowered lawn. An old-fashioned costume of apple green was worn by Mrs. Ruffner and Miss Smith's pink gown was prettily ruffled. Mrs. Jones was attired in a white satin gown.

Mrs. Panton, attired in a beautiful gown of red silk with hoop skirt, and Miss Pierson, attired as an old-fashioned lady, with be-ruffled suit of beaded satin, danced the minuet, which was enthusiastically received by the guests.

All of the dainty old-fashioned ladies wore their hair in curls, with roses and bandeaux peeping from beneath their curls.

All of the numbers were delightfully given and were graciously received by the large audience.

A neat sum was netted by the Symphony Club on the concert, and the proceeds will go toward the fund for paying for the two pianos purchased by the Symphony Club, an upright piano for the Department Club to be used for dances, and a grand for the concerts and entertainments to be given at the club house.

Mrs. Wilson Suffered For 6 Years From Indigestion Until She Took His Advice.

"Ever since I took TANLAC two years ago, I have been blessed with the best of health," states Mrs. Elmer Wilson, highly esteemed resident of 304 Jefferson St., Topeka, Kansas.

"For six years I had suffered from indigestion, which often troubled me day and night. I did not want to eat a thing and at times I would be in such pain and misery from indigestion, heart palpitation and dizziness that I almost felt like screaming."

"My brother, who had used TANLAC, persuaded me to try the medicine and it gave me a grand appetite, ended the indigestion, palpitation and dizziness, increased my weight twelve pounds, and soon had me feeling fine. I have taken TANLAC since then in the spring, to keep up my health, and it has never failed me."

More Substantial
One-half grapefruit with 1 dessert spoon sugar, 1 shredded wheat biscuit, 1 hard boiled egg in 1-2 cup of white sauce on toast, 1 cup cream of tomato soup with 1 tablespoon of whipped cream, 1-2 cup potato salad, 2 slices cold boiled ham, 1-2 pound fillet of haddock with 2 tablespoons lemon butter, 3 new potatoes in parsley sauce, 10 stalks fresh asparagus with 2 tablespoons drawn butter, 12 slices cucumber on 1-2 ounces of shredded lettuce, 2 tablespoons French dressing, 1-6 lemon meringue pie, 1 chocolate eclair, 2 tablespoons whole wheat croissants, 2 thin slices rye bread, 2 slices Graham bread, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 nut roll, 1 cup cocoa, 1-4 cup cream, 1 banana, 1 cup whole milk. Total calories, 2807. Protein, 159; fat, 170; carbohydrate, 1613. Iron, .0188 gram.

If more sugar is wanted for the grapefruit and shredded wheat biscuit, it should of course be used. These menus and calculations are for the average taste and form a working basis for you to reckon your own individual meals. No second hot meals are provided and the amounts mentioned are as near the ordinary family serving as tables-grams and cups can be figured.

The shaggy cream used for all cereals is seasoned lightly with salt and sometimes a few shavings of a spice that combines with a certain vegetable. A dash of paprika usually tops the cream.

The banana is suggested for the shredded wheat.

The nut roll and cup of cocoa can be served as the mid-morning, lunch or afternoon tea.

DISHES FOR THIN OR FOR ADIPOSE

What You Eat Makes You What You Are

Here's an excellent hot weather menu:

One-half grapefruit, 1 poached egg on 1 cup spinach, 1 large fig stuffed with 5 almonds blanched and shredded, 2 lamb chops, 4 tablespoons string beans, 1 cup shredded cabbage, 2 thin slices crisp whole wheat toast, 1 thin slice gluten bread, 1 gluten roll, 1 pint skimmed milk.

Total calories, 1155. Protein, 24; fat, 370; carbohydrate, 572. Iron, .0244 gram.

Would you believe that two innocent tablespoonsful of lemon ice could add 153 calories of carbohydrate to your menu? They will, for 1 planned a treat for you and then had to retract after figuring.

Stew dry figs until tender in water to cover. Do not sweeten. Drain and fill with chopped nuts and serve with a little of the liquor in which they were cooked.

The spinach is cooked in its own juice, finely chopped and seasoned with salt and pepper. Form into a nest-like shape and drop a poached egg in the hollow.

The cabbage is seasoned with salt and pepper and lemon juice. A few celery seeds scattered through the dish make a change.

The beans should be served for the reducing diet before seasoning with butter for the rest of the family.

For Thin People

One-half grapefruit with 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 large mashed potato cake, 2 slices broiled bacon dried in 1-2 cup white sauce on toast, 1 poached egg on 1 cup spinach with 1 tablespoon melted butter, 2 large stuffed figs with 2 tablespoons whipped cream, 1 cup cream of corn soup with 1 tablespoon whipped cream, 1-2 cup well buttered popcorn, 2 tablespoons diced potatoes in 4 tablespoons cream sauce, 2 lamb chops, 1 medium sized sweet potato (baked), 4 tablespoons string beans in 4 tablespoons cream, 1-2 cup shredded cabbage with 1 tablespoon chopped nuts and 2 tablespoons oil mayonnaise, 2 brown muffins, 1 cinnamon roll, 2 thinner rolls, 4 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons lemon ice folded into 2 tablespoons whipped cream with 2 tablespoons hot thick maple syrup poured over the whole, 1 pint whole milk.

Total calories, 4724. Protein, 416; fat, 225; carbohydrate, 2023. Iron, .0254 gram.

Remember that much depends on your height and occupation when figuring the required number of calories. If you are active in outdoor sports (including housecleaning), you will need all of these fat calories even if you are short in stature. But if you are leading an inactive life with just enough outdoor exercise to keep you fit my suggestion is to decrease the whipped cream.

Here's What to Eat and—Lose Weight Gain Weight

One large orange, 2 tablespoons rolled oats, stuffed beet salad, 4 tablespoons baked shrimp and tomatoes, 1 cup spinach, 1 cup fruit salad, 4 ounces leaf lettuce, 2 thin slices gluten bread, 1 whole wheat roll, 1 pint skimmed milk. Total calories, 1002. Protein, 31; fat, 146; carbohydrate, 601. Iron, .024 gram.

Stuffed Beet Salad (Individual)
One medium sized beet, 2 tablespoons cottage cheese, salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-8 teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, lettuce ribbons.

Wash beets and boil until tender. Dip in cold water and slip skin. Scoop out center and fill with cottage cheese mixed with salt, pepper, lemon juice and paprika. Arrange on a bed of shredded lettuce and serve very cold. Bits of the beet scooped from the center can be used to garnish the top of the cheese.

Total calories (exclusive of lettuce), 82. Protein, 43; fat, 4; carbohydrate, 35. Iron, .0003 gram.

The rolled oats are eaten without sugar or cream. Skimmed milk can be used. If the oats are cooked several hours the natural sweetness of the grain will make the lack of sugar quite unnoticeable.

The fruit salad has no dressing but the fruit juices and the spinach is seasoned with salt and pepper and lemon juice.

Lightning-Like Ray to Annihilate Armies, Cities and Materials, Says Scientist

WAR WILL BE A FEARFUL THING

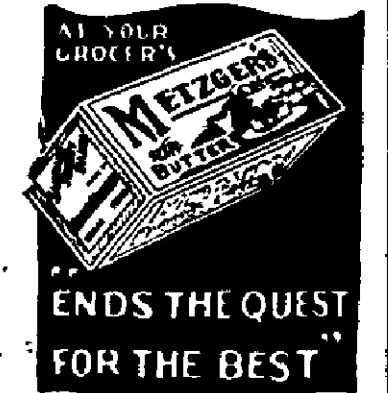

British Backing Wizard Who Is Discoverer

By MILTON BRONNER
The News Writer
LONDON, April 25.—Somewhere in the west of England, hidden by the British government, H. Grindell-Matthews, young scientist, is experimenting with a mysterious and terrific power which is likely to change utterly the nature of the next war.
This power is like lightning, artificially made, and directed so that armies and materials can be destroyed at the will of one man.
None is permitted to see the inventor. One of his assistants described the ray to me in this way:
"It is a sort of path through which we transmit power. It is most easily compared to lightning. When lightning has no clear path, it zigzags about until it strikes a tree, some or some other conductor which gives it a path to the earth. The power we have discovered—a form of electricity—uses the ray as a path just as lightning uses the tree."
Hitherto Almost Unknown
"It hasn't been tested out on a large scale yet, but I can say that in a distance of 60 feet we have used it. We have killed mice instantly, shivered up live plants, exploded gunpowder, and exploded electric light bulbs, and put out of action the magnetism of airplanes and motor cars."
"If our experiments on a large scale bear out what we have done in a small way, then our formulae show that for $15,000,000 we could build a plane that could maintain a barrage for 20 miles around London and for five miles up in the air. As the jet is invisible, a hostile airplane crew could not dodge it and would not know when we were turning it in its direction. Zeppelins would not live more than a few seconds."
Until the other day the name of Grindell-Matthews was unknown to the British people. It has just been revealed that the British government for one discoverer during the war paid him $125,000 within 24 hours after he told the authorities about it.
Steered Boats
In December, 1915, England was terribly wrought up over air raids by Zeppelins. Her army and navy directors were in the market for an airplane that could be sent up without anybody on it and that could be directed and steered from below merely by a searchlight. To make a beginning, they asked whether a boat could be steered from shore by such means.
Grindell-Matthews announced he could do so. So, on a cold winter morning some of the most distinguished experts in England, headed by Admiral Lord Fisher and Lord Balfour, went out to Richmond Park.
Grindell-Matthews launched on the pond his motorboat, "Diana," which had on board an aerogal cylinder composed of eight graphite selenium tablets, each measuring three inches by a half inch, made for him by the famous scientist, Dr. Fournier D'Albe. The searchlight on shore was of the ordinary type used on torpedo boats and had a 24 inch Parsons motor. Balfour stood by Grindell-Matthews and told the latter what evolutions he wanted the boat to perform. It followed his instructions like a live thing.
Next day Grindell-Matthews got his check.

WOMENS EYE ON VICE PRESIDENCY

Political Managers Are Worrying Over Situation

By HARRY H. HUNT
The News Writer
WASHINGTON, April 25.—"Watch out for the women. They have something besides their arms up their sleeves."
This is the warning that has come out to political managers who, from force of habit, are devoting most of their time to scanning the campaign literature from a purely masculine viewpoint.
Undercover whisperings in feminine organizations, however, have penetrated to the ears of political scouts and an alarm has been sounded to look out for a surprise attack and to arm for the emergency.
For some weeks there has been a growing suspicion that the women were up to something, but just what it has remained in doubt. Recently a dinner arrived with a breathless story of a plan for the ladies to kidnap the vice presidency at the Republican convention.
Concerning that "kidnap" has the presidential nomination already been decided, the women will be content. For this time, with second place on the ticket, but they will make a real and earnest fight for that. At least so the story ran.
"All bunk," they tell you at both Republican and Democratic headquarters. These are quotes for publication. Privately, they'll inquire most

ENDS THE QUEST FOR THE BEST

EVER HEAR OF A RHUBARB STEW?

Two Favorite Menus Include Them

Rhubarb is many people's vegetable favorite. Here are two "easy" programs including it:
One-half cup stewed rhubarb, 3 cups boiling water, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup diced beets with 1 tablespoon orange juice, 2 "hot-dogs," 2 tablespoons minced Bermuda onion, 1 cup tomato sauce, 1 tomato sliced on 2 ounces watercress, 2 tablespoons lemon jelly, 1 tablespoon "diet" whipped cream, 2 thin crisp slices gluten toast, 1 bran roll, 2 thin slices gluten bread, 1 pint skimmed milk.
Total calories, 969. Protein, 138; fat, 254; carbohydrate, 577. Iron, 0.199 gram.
This is an excellent menu for a warm spring day. As the weather grows warmer less food is needed and even the diet menu should be reduced.
Toast the watercress in the toaster in the oven. Wash well and cut a thin slice from each end of each wiener. Put in the toaster, without water, and roast about 15 minutes in a hot oven. Serve with Worcestershire sauce and minced Bermuda onion.
The "diet" whipped cream is nothing but the white of one egg beaten until stiff and dry with a whisk. Two to four tablespoons of sugar are beaten into the white and one-half teaspoon of vanilla is used for flavoring. This rule will serve six "normal" persons.
One-half cup stewed rhubarb, 1 cup rolled oats with 6 dates, 1 soft boiled egg, 3 ounces boiled calves brains, 2 rice croquettes, 1 1/2 cups diced beets with 2 tablespoons orange sauce, 1 cup cream of bean soup, 2 "hot-dogs," 2 tablespoons mashed potatoes, 2 tablespoons minced Bermuda onion, 1 cup tomato sauce, 1 tomato sliced on 2 ounces watercress with 2 tablespoons French dressing, 2 tablespoons lemon jelly with 2 tablespoons diet whipped cream and 2 tablespoons minced nuts, 4 tablespoons fat pudding with 2 tablespoons whipped cream, 1 toasted cornmeal muffin, 2 bran muffins, 2 long rolls, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 dessertspoon sugar, 1-1/2 cup cream, 1 pint whole milk.
Total calories, 3561. Protein, 302;

Hot Cross Buns
No Easter breakfast is complete without its hot cross buns. They can be all made up ready for the oven Saturday night and popped in and baked while the coffee is boiling.
One, and one-half cups scalded milk, 1/2 cup sugar, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 yeast cake dissolved in 1-1/2 cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup currants, flour.
Mix milk, salt and sugar. When lukewarm add dissolved yeast cake and about two cups of flour. Beat well and let rise one hour. Add eggs well beaten, butter melted, cinnamon and flour knead. Add currants and knead until elastic. Put in a bowl, cover with a clean cloth and let stand over night. In the morning shape in small balls, cut a cross on the top of each with a knife and let rise to double their bulk. Put them in a warm place and they will rise quickly. Bake twenty minutes in a moderately hot oven. When nearly done brush tops with a sliver of one 1/2-teaspoon milk and two of sugar boiled one minute. Houston's Flashy Matman Meets Mike Thompson Here Tonight

Athletic Card Is Spiciest of Year In a Local Arena

Fast Prelims Slated to Open Spectacular Scrap Between Leading Heavyweight Contenders; Fans Divided On Outcome of Mill

By BILL ARCHER

WILL FORT'S athletic card tonight includes: Paul Jones, 195-pound wrestler from Houston, versus Mike Thompson, 195-pound grappler from Washington, D. C., in a finish, no time limit match. (main go).

Lawrence Westbrook of Henrietta, Okla., 160-pounds, versus Young Jesse Couch, 162 pounds, of Port Arthur, in a one-fall match (preliminary).

Kid Bucco versus Young Zbyzsko, exhibition. (Preliminary).

The card will get under way promptly at 8 o'clock, with the first preliminary going on at that hour to raise the curtain in what promises to be the most sensational wrestling match billed for this city.

Meets Tough Matman Paul Jones, the phenomenal youth, unopposed in his own class, will meet one of the toughest boys who has invaded the south. Thompson, believed to be the original Cunningham, is an equal match for the Houston artist who in one short season has set Houston fans afire with praise and has conquered some of the best boys in the game.

Rumor has it that Mike Thompson is a "hide out" belonging to the camp of a famous promoter of the east, sent south to do training and get in condition for a series of engagements the coming winter. Thompson can wrestle, whoever he is.

Mike A Country Lad Like Jones, he was born in a country village, in the north, reared in the great outdoors of this country, and has followed the mat game for six seasons successfully, he says. In his match against Rudy Duck in the local ring a week ago, Mike Thompson made many friends and admirers. His long gaiting arms, his uncanny strength and determined endurance won the praises of the faithful of fans who surged at the ringside and cheered him on into the scrap. And Thompson gave Duck one of the toughest bills the latter ever has encountered since he has been wrestling, according to remarks made by Rudy shortly after the battle.

Thompson Shows Ability Rudy said that Thompson was a real man on the mats, and that he had more nerve than the fans could imagine.

But Thompson showed that when he withstood some of the most grueling wrangles and body holds that have yet been applied in Elks theater. Jones, in training constantly for matches, is coming to Port Arthur tonight in the pink of trim for this bill. He doesn't know how to quit, according to Julius Siegel, his manager. "All Paul knows is fight, fight, fight," and it is that spirit, coupled with an accurate knowledge of the book secrets and a few other interesting holds which he applies with considerably ferocity, that has won a long string of victories for the Houston lion.

Other Matches to Come Stated to follow this evening's scrap, and that the coming bill may include a finish battle between Jones and Actor has already been indicated by local promoters, who have announced that "a good fast low will be brought to meet the winner of tonight's match and an effort to get Jones and Actor in the local ring together before the season closes will be made." With every thing in rather prevailing, and interest unusually high in the scrap this evening, the Jones-Thompson card bids fair to draw a record house to the ring-side.

200 TEAMS IN ANNUAL RELAY

Athletes From Canada And States to Compete

NEW YORK, April 25.—More than 200 teams from the United States, Canada and England were entered here to compete this afternoon in the opening program of the annual Pennsylvania relay carnival. Approximately 4,000 athletes are entered in the 98 events listed on the two day program which includes a flock of relay races and a number of special field events.

The track, wetted down by a heavy rain earlier in the week, was lightning today and promised a new record in the sprint relay race, the feature event of the opening day card.

Foreign entries are headed by the team from Cambridge University, England, which is entered in the sprint relay and the two mile international championship race, the record for which has been broken twice in the last two years.

Lane Liddle, of Edinburgh University, British sprinting champion, is one of the star entries in the special 100 yard dash, which has one of the finest fields ever entered in the event.

Entries from American colleges include all of the big eastern universities, several from the middle-west, from Texas, and several from California.

Charlie Hall Beats Couch Two Falls In Match at PAAC Ring

By TAB

IN 17 minutes, Charlie Hall, Beaumont grappler, downed Young Jesse Couch for two falls in Port Arthur Athletic Club arena last night and won the bout, the local matman losing his first battle since last September when he made his flashy debut on the mats here.

Couch was on the defensive all the way, and only applied a few holds during the contest, Hall breaking them with a flash of ability.

The wrestlers were announced in at 102 pounds each, and met in mid arena with each springing for first hold. The first fall went exactly 10 minutes on the dial of the time-keeper's piece, and at the end of the scuffle, Hall was being acclaimed victor with a combination headlock and reinforced toe-hold applied on Couch.

Second Fall Is Spicy

The second fall went the route in one minute's time, Couch conceding the match when Hall applied a hammerlock.

Lawrence Westbrook of Henrietta, Okla., and Oren Baudine both challenged the winner, Westbrook preferring Couch. Couch and Westbrook may meet in a one-fall preliminary match at Elks theater tonight on the Port Arthur card.

In the prelims last night, Kid Reeves and Babe Savemol, 118 and 115-pounds respectively, wrestled 7-12 minutes to a fall, Reeves applying a headlock and a body scissors to win.

Crowd Has Interest

Although a small crowd attended the match, considerable interest was manifested in its outcome, there having been much debate among mat fans here concerning a Couch-Hall finish bill, and opinions being equally divided as to the outcome of a scrap between the two.

The appearance for Hall was probably his last in Jefferson county for some time, the Beaumont grappler having signed up for a series of bouts on the road, and having made preparations to depart this week. He may be presented here in coming bouts next winter.

NEW YORK, April 25.—Pancho Villa, world's flyweight champion, signed to defend his title against Frankie Genaro, American 112-pound champion, in a 15-round match at the Strand, N. Y. C. Brooklyn, the latter part of May or the first of June, according to Tom McCardle, matchmaker of the club.

Genaro has not signed, but McCardle anticipates no difficulty in completing the match. Terms have not been fixed.

The pair have fought three times before, Genaro holding two decisions over the Filipino, while their other encounter was a no decision affair.

New York Yanks Get Off With Babe Ruth Hitting And Pitchers Doing Better

NEW YORK, April 25.—Babe Ruth, hitting better and with the veteran pitchers working better, the New York Yankees are beginning to get on their feet in the American League pennant race. The champions have jumped into a tie for fourth place with the Boston Red Sox and the Cleveland Indians, a slow starting club which is also just beginning to move at its regular speed.

"We have a veteran club and it was not to be expected that the players would step off in high speed," Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees said. "We had a lot of hot weather in Boston and the boys are in good condition."

Babe Ruth is all full of cold. He should have been in bed yesterday, but he insisted that he had to be up and around so he could get better. Ruth is bothered by a sore arm and the other pitchers can't do their best until the weather gets warmer.

Huggins figures that the American League is much better balanced now than it was last year and that there is going to be a real pennant fight. The Yankees ought to repeat as the library of 2,000,000 books.

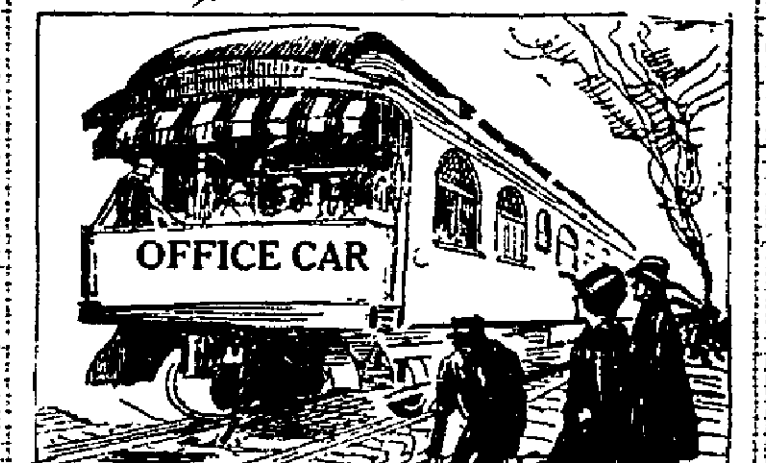

United States Government INDIAN LAND EQUITIES

These lands are located in Southern Oklahoma in a well-populated section of the state, traversed by five trunk line railroads; lands being sought near good market towns, schools, churches, roads, etc. They are highly valuable for the raising of all kinds of live stock, fruits, poultry and dairying, also for their oil and gas possibilities, being situated in Mid Continent oil belt. Drilling operations are now being carried on in the counties where these lands are located. ALL OIL, GAS AND MINERAL RIGHTS GO WITH THE LAND. THIS WILL UNDOUBTEDLY BE YOUR LAST OPPORTUNITY TO SECURE LAND EXTENSIVELY SURROUNDED BY PRODUCING OIL FIELDS. A noted geologist, formerly of Tulsa, says that Southern Oklahoma (where these lands are located) ARE THE RICHEST UNDEVELOPED OIL AND GAS FIELDS IN OKLAHOMA, and that, practically all of Oklahoma lying along Arkansas line below Fort Smith is rich in MANGANESE, IRON, OIL AND GAS. There being deep oil sands that will produce many times the quantity that has already been produced in Oklahoma.

Most in Southern Oklahoma believe that oil drilling will establish the counties wherein these lands are located, as proven territory, thus making it possible for the purchasers of these lands to obtain valuable oil and gas leases. Most of these lands are valuable for their timber. If marketed intelligently, it will pay considerable of the purchase price.

Oil, Gas and Timber Leases Will Be Secured for Purchasers of These Lands

Lands are available in 40 and 80 acre tracts at prices from $500 to $1500 per acre, payable on long yearly payments. Residence or improvements not required. No taxes until paid in full. The corps of representatives on the Private Pullman Office Car, 6th St. and Austin Ave., are equipped with Plans, Charts, Maps and full details covering each tract of land and you can pick your own tract when application is filed. The promoter did not reveal the steps he had taken but intimated further inducements would be placed before Firpo, who recently refused to fight to Rickard's latest advances.

"I am still confident, Firpo, will abandon his idea about retiring and make another effort to lift the heavyweight title," said Rickard.

QUESTIONS.

1. If a ball is fair when it passes over the fence but later goes foul before passing out of the sight of the umpire, is it a home run or merely a foul ball?
 2. Can a player be taken out of the game after several balls have been pitched to him and a pinch hitter substituted?
 3. When two runners are standing on a base, to whom does the base belong?
 4. Can a batsman take first base when hit by a slowly pitched ball?
 5. If a fielder drops a fly ball but the batsman is finally retired is the fielder charged with an error?
- ANSWERS.
1. The umpire judges a hit over the fence fair or foul according to its position when it finally passes from his vision.
 2. A batsman can be removed at any time in favor of a substitute hitter. The substitute simply taking the balls and strikes count on the original batsman.
 3. A base always belongs to its original occupant unless he is forced to vacate.
 4. The speed of a pitched ball is given no consideration when a batsman is hit. The question of the batsman going to first depends on whether or not the umpire believed he tried to avoid the pitch.
 5. The fielder is charged with an error even though the batsman is finally retired.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Is accuracy to be desired in everything? Would the perfect umpire who never made a mistake be a good thing for baseball?

Last season Zev defeated in Memoriam in one of the feature turf events of the year.

At least the judges said Zev won, so that made it officially so. It seems everyone else at the race thought in Memoriam went under the wire first.

Then came the camera man to prove via the picture route that the judges were right. However, that didn't make it so, since even the camera can do trick stuff.

CLOSE DECISIONS IN SPORT ARE THE BANE OF ALL OFFICIALS. THEY ALL LOOK DIFFERENT FROM THE VARIOUS ANGLES THAT ONE SEES THEM, WHETHER AT THE RACE TRACK OR BALL PARK.

Winning a race by an eyelash, more or less, inspired a turf enthusiast of an inventive turn of mind, to perfect a machine to eliminate all chance of dispute.

The machine, stationed on a direct line with the finish, not only electrically times the race, but also snaps a photograph of the finish.

Such a photograph would tell the true story since the machine would be properly focused, and the snapping of the picture automatically done.

THE PERFECTION OF THIS DEVICE TO GIVE TRUTH DECISIONS, BRINGS UP A QUESTION AS TO WHETHER BASEBALL WOULD PROFIT BY A PERFECT UMPIRE, AN AUTOMATIC INVENTION THAT WOULD CALL BALLS AND STRIKES AND AUTO SAFE AND NEVER MAKE A MISTAKE.

Baseball thrives on the old sibil. It is surprising how much satisfaction many a fan gets in defeat by being able to do up some adverse decision of the umpire and lay the blame at the official's door.

The perfect umpire would take much of the thrill out of baseball. It would eliminate the favorite target of fandom.

With the perfect umpire in charge of the game the fan would have no outlet for his feelings.

Incidentally, it would kill for all time Old Man Albi, a favorite with fan and player.

It's human to err. Umpires, all reports to the contrary, are human. No sir! I don't think the perfect umpire would do over very big in baseball.

Suddenly an enormous genie appeared in the air

"Where to next?" asked Mister Mugs, as Nancy and Nick stepped into the magic automobile. They were going to have another adventure in Once-Upon-a-Time Land.

"Let's go to see Aladdin," said Nick.

"Aladdin?" cried Mister Mugs. "Why, I had almost forgotten about him. We'll go to see him at once and ask him if he still has the wonderful lamp that he found in a cave."

So the little car came at last to a gorgeous Chinese city, where the houses had rubies for eave knobs, emeralds for roof tiles and diamonds for window panes.

But before they had passed the first gate the little car stopped stony still and wouldn't move.

"Well, I declare!" said Mister Mugs as he pulled and tugged and hammered and shook the magic automobile. "This is the very first time I've had any trouble with this machine. Magic automobiles are supposed never to get out of order."

He looked in the radiator.

"Why, it's as dry as a bone!" he cried. "That's what's wrong."

"There's a trough," said Nick. "and I see a queer crooked little beggar near it. I'll go and bring you some water."

Which he did.

He was just about to toss the queer little kettle of a thing away when Mister Mugs said quickly, "Here, let me see that thing."

Nick passed it over and the fairy-man looked it over closely.

"If I'm not mistaken this is a magic," he remarked. And he gave it a rub with his coat sleeve.

Suddenly an enormous genie appeared in the air, about the ugliest creature you ever saw in your life.

"What is your wish? I am here to do your bidding, I and the other slaves of the lamp," he said in a thundering voice.

"The wicked magician from Africa came in the night and stole the lamp from Aladdin. But robbers attacked him as he left the city and took all he had. When they saw the lamp they thought it was worthless and threw it into your ditch. Whoever possesses the lamp owns its slaves also. The boy who picked it up is now our master."

"Oh, I don't want you," stammered poor Nick. "I'm much obliged just the same."

"But we can make you king of the earth," said the genie, "and build you cities more magnificent than this."

"No—no, thank you," said Nick. "I'll just give us a push, we will take the lamp back to Aladdin. You'd better stay with him. I'm too little to be a king anyway and I wouldn't know what to do with a lot of cities."

Aladdin was overjoyed at the return of the precious lamp.

The three visitors spent the day with him and his princess and had a fine time.

Roman Cock Fights

I wonder what makes people love to watch a fight. I suppose it's the excitement which gives a bit of change from the dull life of "making a living."

Prize fights, when men batter and beat and do their best to hurt, are really ugly things; yet there are great numbers of persons who are willing to spend their time watching.

Bull fights (man against bull) are very popular in Spain and Mexico. Some Americans raise their hands in horror about the bull fights, but they say little or nothing about prize fights.

Boys in Roman times appear to have enjoyed the "sport" of cock-fighting. One of our pictures shows two boys who have been presiding at a cock fight. The loser is carrying away his "bird," which is limp—perhaps dead. The young master is rubbing his eyes. The other boy has a champion almost as big as himself. From the picture you would think he could get on his back and take a ride. For to the right is a bust of a god. On the altar are wreaths and palm branches such as were given to the victors.

Our other picture is just as interesting. It also shows the end of a cock fight. One bird is bleeding from the beaks of his opponent. One of the masters is bleeding because he has lost; the other holds a wreath aloft. Two slave boys are nearby. One bears a palm branch in his hands, the other is weeping. You can guess which boy belongs to which master.

When Thelma saw some of the teachers talking one day and looking in her direction, she was just sure they were discussing whether or not she was to be the May Queen. Then one of them called to her. "They must have decided on me," she thought.

The little girl was so surprised she just stood there with her mouth open. But her teacher laughed and said, "Don't be so modest, Thelma. I know you didn't expect to get one of the big parts, but I'm sure you'll do it well!"

Practical Politicians Shocked at Neff's Fight For An Uninstructed Delegation

LOVE HIRES HALL TO LAMBAST HIM

Party Chief Would 'Cinch' 40 for McAdoo

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
News Staff Writer

It is said to be the sacred of a free born American citizen to contribute to the glory of his fellow and keep the home fires burning. Governor Pat Morris Neff has been doing his part for four long years. He will be on the political firing line until the day before the precinct primary conventions, May 3, appealing to his fellow delegates to send a delegation of forty, instructed as to principles but uninstructed as to men, to the Madison Square Garden convention.

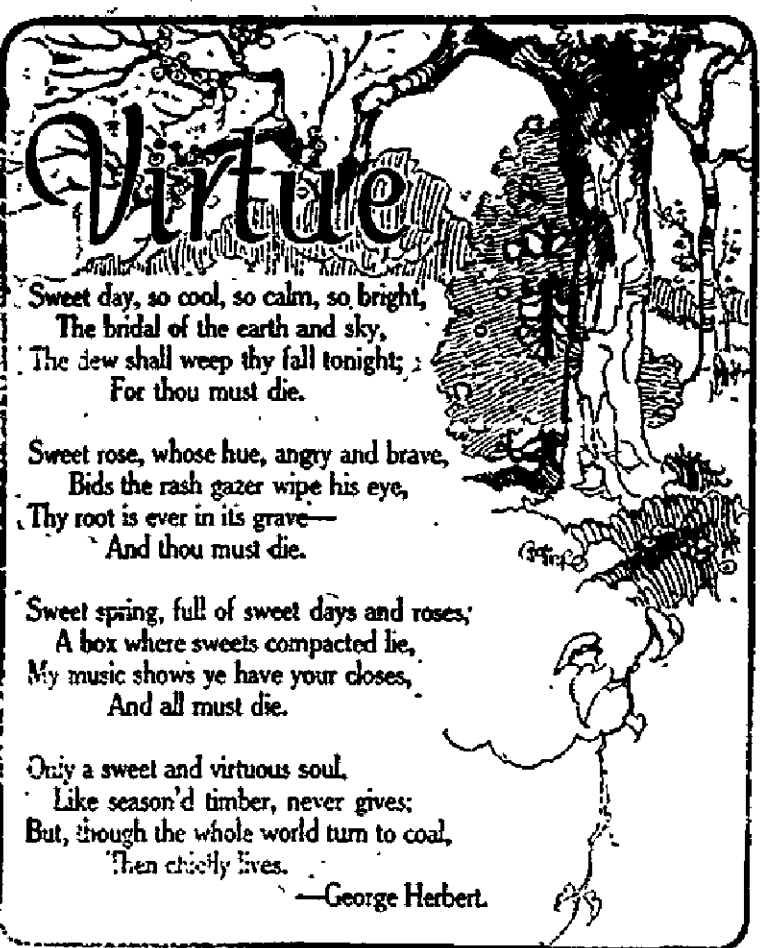

There was an apathy that smelted of the graveyard before the governor announced his program and walked down the middle of the road giving advice to his fellow delegates. First the practical politicians were amused, then they were amazed and lastly they were shocked at the audacity of the thing. Finally they began to realize that something might happen on May 3 and the sharp-shooting began.

Now the big chieftain of the McAdoo cause, National Committeeman Thomas B. Love has decided to discharge a Missouri Big Bertha at the governor and his followers. He has hired an auditorium in the City of Dallas and on the coming Monday night he will tell the democrats of Texas why they should turn down the governor and his proposal and instruct the forty delegates from Texas to vote for William Gibbs McAdoo first and last and all the time.

A Fatal Admission

This announcement, according to democrats who are not for McAdoo, is a sure tip of high sin from Love that Neff has been making fearful inroads in the political arena and may cause the practical politicians a lot of trouble on May 3 Joseph Weldon Bailey has not been in evidence in the campaign. He has great admiration for Oscar W. Underwood but the only pungent remarks that he has made were uttered in criticism of State Chairman Frank C. Davis in the city of Austin the other day.

By the way, Chairman Davis visited Dallas and was in conference with the big chief of the McAdoo forces before he let loose his interview in the Sunday papers which caused so much adverse comment the state over. McAdoo leaders had declared that McAdoo would sweep the state for the reason that all anti-Bailey men would vote for the Californian contender when along came the Hon. George W. Riddle of Dallas who in the not remote past was the chairman of the anti-Bailey state organization of democrats, always prominent in the ranks of the prohibitionists, ever a Wilson devotee with the statement that it would be useless "to enter McAdoo in the presidential race," that the Neff proposal should be satisfactory to all democrats, (that he found himself in sympathy with Governor Neff in his efforts to send an uninstructed delegation and he gave this reason for

Sweet day, so cool, so calm, so bright,
The bride of the earth and sky,
The dew shall weep thy fall tonight;
For thou must die.

Sweet rose, whose hue, angry and brave,
Bids the rash gazer wipe his eye,
Thy root is ever in its grave—
And thou must die.

Sweet spring, full of sweet days and roses,
A box where sweets compacted lie,
My music shows ye have your closes,
And all must die.

Only a sweet and virtuous soul.

Like season'd timber, never gives;
But, though the whole world turn to coal,
Then chiefly lives.

—George Herbert.

the faith within him:

"It is a bad time to tie up our delegates to the coat tail of any man and we ought not to do it. If we do they will be kicked about and wiggled and wagged around by the friends of the candidates and by the smooth political ducks who want to get up a trade. Let us keep out of that sort of a box."

Fernex Chairman's Bomb

This bomb exploded by the former chairman of the anti-Bailey state organization, infuriated the McAdoo leaders. National Committeeman Love, his friends say, will make a red hot speech Monday night and handle all the opponents of an instructed McAdoo delegation without gloves. Love is the spokesman for McAdoo in Texas. He directed the McAdoo fight in 1920. He is directing it this year. Take it from the writer, Love is a practical politician and knows the science of the game. Take it from the writer that Neff stirred up the political animals when he invaded the political arena selecting his fellow democrats to get busy on May 3.

Politics has its funny side. Charles F. Greenwood appeared before the Dallas county democratic executive committee the other day with a string of resolutions demanding a return of the party to the faith of the fathers, to the rights of the state, to reject all fifty-fifty appropriations made by the federal government and the resolutions were adopted without a dissenting vote. This happened in Dallas county, the home of Joseph Weldon Bailey and the adopted resolution read like an old time Bailey speech.

Bowie County

Senator Morris Sheppard is having an lining. Texarkana is his home. The Bowie county democratic executive committee adopted a resolution declaring Sheppard the choice of his home county democrats as the democratic candidate for president this year. Senator Sheppard is the author of the Eighteenth and Nineteenth amendments. He is a candidate for reelection. Fred W. Davis, a dirt farmer, is his opponent. Is this a hint that Bowie county will send an uninstructed delegation to the Bowie convention?

A Missouri democratic leader who visited Texas with the St. Louis delegation of business men said to the writer, "We Missouri democrats are looking forward. A resolution favoring modification of the Volstead act was rejected by the resolutions committee of the Springfield convention. The committee without a vote refused to act on a resolution which would instruct the Missouri delegation to the National convention for McAdoo. A resolution instructing the delegation to be governed by the unit rule was adopted. We are friendly to McAdoo but are not instructed for him. A dead lock may come and we are going to vote for the most available man. Hammond prevailed in democratic ranks in Missouri. Indeed, Chairman Davis said in his address, 'The differences of the past now are all buried.'"

"Yes," Neff started something when he walked down the middle of the road with his message. Now democrats of all shades of opinion are asking:

Where Are All Those?

"Where's Come Johnston? Why his silence? Where is M. M. Crane? Where is Cullen F. Thomas? Where is Barry Miller? Where is Major Richard Burgess? Where is Gus Taylor? Where is Lee Beatty? Where are the other bell weather and spell binders of the democratic flock? These democrats and many others were in evidence at Baltimore, at St. Louis and in the Golden Gate City four years ago. What is the line up this year? Are they dead or dumb or blind? Are they for Neff or Mc-

'I Wish I Were Poor So I Could Play,' Says Maid Who Is Worth 2 Millions

BY ROY J. GIBBONS
The News Writer

VINITA, OKLA., April 25.—Sorrow of a million tears broke from the eyes of Maude Lee Maud.

She is one of Oklahoma's poor rich Indians. Neither gold nor the youth of her 16 years seem sufficient to assuage the grief in this little girl's heart. Almost with a sense of longing has she come to look upon the $2,000,000 fortune inherited from her Ojawa and Quaw-jaw ancestors. Oil found on tribal lands brought her wealth.

In Maude's child-like way of reasoning, this bulging bank balance of white man's wampum is directly responsible for all the mischief done her since she became an heiress.

"But," she is, and seriously so, "I wish I were poor—just poor enough so that I could play and not have people fighting over me all the time."

Maude's case and plight are synonymous with thousands of her race in Oklahoma who have been made rich by oil.

State court-appointed guardians have these Indians under supervision. Maude has had three of these protectors since she became an heiress.

William Simms, her present guardian, was suspended from the Indian probate service pending investigation of charges that he paid a former congressman and lawyer $17,500 as a retainer fee to represent Maude in court.

Simms has done a lot of good for Maude. He has had her eyes treated for trachoma and saved the little girl from approaching blindness.

He was officially reproved, however, for neglecting a guardianship over her.

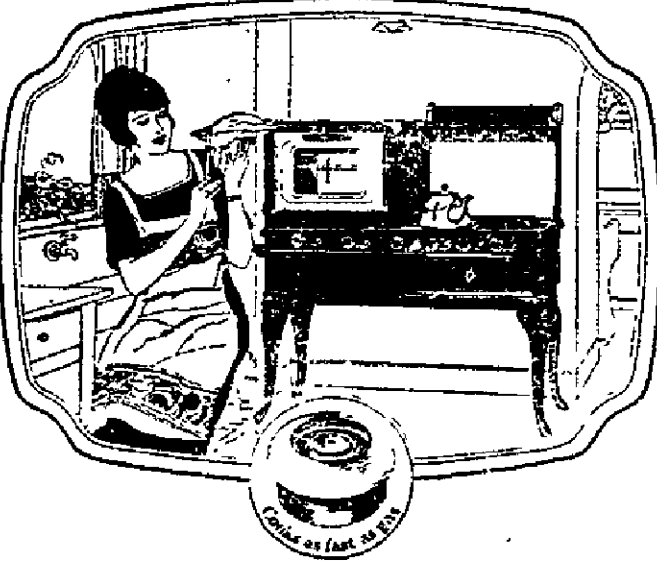

The Indian Service maintained his act was a violation of the probate service.

Adoo or Underwood? Where, oh where is former Senator William A. Hanger, the man who assisted Joseph Weldon Bailey and James E. Ferguson to send National Committeeman Thomas E. Gore to the nearest hospital in the city of San Antonio eight years ago?

They are asking, "What is going to happen on May 3? Are the Kirby boys going to the conventions? Are the women going to the conventions? Are the farmers going to the conventions? If so will it be an avalanche or a landslide and where will the avalanche hit if it comes or the land slide slide?"

craft and open hostility between the federal Indian department and state government have grown out of the guardian system.

All of this Maude, with her sad heart and still sadder eyes—eyes just rescued from the dread trachoma epidemic among her people—knows, but cannot frame into words because she is just a little Indian girl.

But in these words, symbolic to her of all the dread and curse that money has brought to a once mighty people—her own people—she tells the world that a promise has been broken, that sadness and heartaches grip the red man.

DIAMOND STAR Pure Cane Sugar

NOWHERE in the world is there a better sugar refining plant than that which will presently be put in operation at Texas City, Texas. We intend to make it an institution in which the Southwest can take pride as in an achievement of its own people—an industry which will contribute something to the welfare of everyone living within the territory it will serve.

This enterprise represents an outlay of over $5,500,000. It will have an initial capacity of 350,000,000 pounds of refined sugar per year.

It is located on the Texas coast, where domestic and Cuban raw sugar will be brought direct to its doors.

It is the last word in mechanical perfection, designed and built to produce the best sugar that can be made.

Its situation will mean prompt delivery and adequate supply to dealers and consumers of the Southwest.

Don't forget these facts: In a short time you will have the opportunity of helping this enterprise to take front rank among the other successful industries of the Southwest. Ask for Diamond Star Sugar.
